

The World Economic Forum is an independent international organization committed to improving the state of the world by engaging leaders in partnerships to shape global, regional and industry agendas.

Incorporated as a foundation in 1971, and headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland, the World Economic Forum is impartial and not-for-profit; it is tied to no political, partisan or national interests.

As a result of the successful growth of our organization we are now searching for a:

KNOWLEDGE MANAGER ENERGY

You will be the knowledge management “glue” of the Energy team by professionalizing knowledge management processes across the team, within the Forum and with the external network. You will establish the value proposition that will make engagement with the Forum attractive for energy ministers. You will build, develop and manage the relationships with relevant energy ministers, their cabinets and their advisers, at all levels.

You will enable an effective multistakeholder dialogue with the right level of participation of public figures and appropriate topics on the agenda in the different formats used by the Forum (meetings, dialogues series, teleconferences, documents, etc.). You will capture the wealth of knowledge of the energy industries and the Forum in general to bring focus, efficiency and effectiveness to the knowledge management agenda. You will assist energy ministers and their delegations at relevant World Economic Forum events.

You will join the Forum as part of our Global Leadership Fellows Programme (www.weforum.org/glf). As such, you will be fully integrated into the World Economic Forum and benefit from an intensive work and learning experience intended to develop and train future leaders of global enterprises and international organizations. The Global Leadership Fellows Programme is designed and run by the World Economic Forum in collaboration with its worldwide network of distinguished experts and leaders.

We expect you to exhibit demonstrated leadership capabilities; excellence in the fields of business and geopolitics; and proven interest in global affairs. You possess a broad intellectual background with at least a Master's degree (or equivalent) in international relations/geopolitical studies. You have a minimum of five years' relevant experience, including experience in the policy-making area, ideally in the energy sector, government relations and knowledge management. You are fluent in English and at least one other language.

Please apply through www.weforum.org/careers and provide us with a cover letter, your curriculum vitae, three references and an 800-word personal essay on what your motivations are in joining the Global Leadership Programme and what you would like to achieve in your life.
